Washington Homeschool Portfolio Checklist

Work down this list once a term and the annual review stops being an event.

Student: _____

School year: _____

- [ ] A dated log of educational activities
  What you covered and which subject it served, written as you go. Reconstructing a year of this in the week before a review is the single most common portfolio scramble.
- [ ] A reading list, by title
  Every book and material named. This is the piece families most often rebuild from memory, and the piece a reviewer can check fastest.
- [ ] Samples of your student's work
  Writings, worksheets, workbooks, and creative work. A few pieces per subject spread across the year reads as evidence; a stack from one good week does not.
- [ ] The assessment or evaluation record
  Washington lets you choose: testing or evaluation. Keep the result filed with the portfolio rather than loose, since the two get asked for together.
- [ ] Your hours record
  Washington sets an hours requirement, and the portfolio is where the evidence that you met it usually gets shown.
- [ ] A copy of anything you filed
  Your notice of intent and any correspondence with the district, dated. If a question ever comes up, dated proof that you filed on time closes it.

What Washington requires

Under RCW 28A.200.010(1)(c), each year's standardized test or written assessment becomes part of the child's permanent records, and (1)(b) has you forward those records if your child transfers to another school. Washington requires no portfolio beyond that.

Building this by hand every spring? Homeschool Fox keeps your samples, reading list, and hours together as you go. Start free at homeschoolfox.com.